Office of the President

3 April 2003

Dear National Debate Tournament Participants:

Welcome to Emory University! My colleagues and I are delighted that you are here to enjoy a rigorous weekend of intellectual exercise as you engage in this prestigious forensics competition.

The Barkley Forum at Emory has a long, distinguished, and successful history, contributing to the mental acuity and confidence of countless students over the years. I wish the best of luck to all competitors, from Emory and beyond, involved in the weekend's activities.

It is an honor for the University to serve as your host, and I hope very much that you enjoy your time at Emory.

Sincerely,

March 24, 2003

Dear National Debate Tournament Participants,

The entire Division of Campus Life joins me in welcoming you to the 57th annual National Debate Tournament at Emory University. We are very pleased to have you on campus for the weekend.

Intercollegiate debate has been an important tradition at Emory since the 1920's. Our debate team, the Barkley Forum, has a proud tradition of success in intercollegiate debate and is consistently ranked among the top five programs in the nation. Equally important, however, is the Barkley Forum's remarkable tradition of service to the debate community. It sponsors the Emory National Debate Institute and the Barkley Forum for High Schools (BFHS), one of the oldest forensics events in the country. The staff of the Barkley Forum also founded the Urban Debate League, a national education reform movement that brings the advantages of participating in debate – enhanced academic skills, bolstered self-confidence and self-esteem, improved citizenship, and increased respect for others – to traditionally underserved high schools.

I hope you enjoy your visit to Emory University and the city of Atlanta. Please accept my congratulations on the achievements that have brought you here, and my best wishes for a successful tournament.

Sincerely,

John L. Ford
Senior Vice President and Dean for Campus Life

March 20, 2003

Dear NDT Participants,

Congratulations to you for qualifying for the 57th National Debate Tournament Championships. It is my pleasure to welcome you to Emory University and Atlanta, Georgia. It is an honor for Atlanta to host the nation's oldest and most prestigious intercollegiate debate championship.

Atlanta has a long and storied history of scholastic and collegiate speech and debate programs. The city and the state has a strong commitment to the value of public discussion and debate. Atlanta is the birthplace of the civil rights movement and home to two Nobel Peace Prize Laureates, former President Jimmy Carter and the late Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr. Your presence reminds us of that free speech and debate plays an important role in human rights and the fulfillment of human potential.

Atlanta is a city known for its hospitality and I know that you will feel welcome in the city and at Emory University, one of the nation's finest Universities. I hope that you have the opportunity to explore Atlanta's entertainment, cultural, and historical sites during your stay.

I wish you all a successful and enjoyable tournament. Best luck to each of you.

Yours for Atlanta,

Dear National Debate Tournament Participants:

Congratulations to the competitors, coaches and schools participating in the 57th annual National Debate Tournament hosted by the Barkley Forum of Emory University. As a former Emory student and an Emeritus Board Member, I am delighted to welcome you to the Emory campus and to the state of Georgia.

At the Nuclear Threat Initiative, which I co-chair with Ted Turner, we are working to reduce the threats from nuclear, biological and chemical weapons, so I am pleased to know that the National Debate Tournament is focusing on issues relating to the Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty and the Strategic Offensive Reduction Treaty, among other important treaties.

I commend you for getting informed on these issues and for your hard work in making it to the National Tournament. Good luck to each of you, and best wishes for stimulating and informative debates.

Sincerely,

Sam Nunn

Emory University

Emory College was founded in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, and is the oldest college of the University. In 1915, Emory University was established in Atlanta with Emory College as its undergraduate school of arts and sciences. College classes continued to be held at Oxford until 1919 when the college relocated to the new campus in Atlanta. The college offers 51 majors, 13 joint concentrations, and 10 interdepartmental programs. Emory College's 450 faculty represent 40 departments and programs across the traditions of a liberal education.

Emory University is known for its outstanding undergraduate college of arts and sciences, its highly ranked professional schools, its demanding academics, and its state-of-the-art research facilities. Along with dramatic increases in research support in recent years, the University has maintained its long tradition of fine teaching. Emory has a long-held commitment to public service and a concern for the ethical implications and use of knowledge. Founded by the Methodist Church in 1836, it has long been one of the most ethnically and religiously diverse university communities in the United States. Its Atlanta campus, located 15 minutes from downtown Atlanta, is positioned along the Clifton Corridor, which also includes the U.S. Center for Disease Control and Prevention and the American Cancer Society.

Emory's professional schools are among the finest in the nation. The medical school has six departments ranked among the top ten departments and programs nationally, and the Candler School of Theology is considered to be one of the nation's finest. The Goizuetta Business School's MBA program is ranked 17th by the Wall Street Journal and 22nd by Business Week. The law school's Trial Advocacy Program and the Goizuetta Executive MBA Program are ranked among the ten best by U.S. News & World Report. For more than a decade, Emory University has been named as one of the nation's top 25 national universities by U.S. News & World Report. In 2002 Emory ranked 18th.

In addition to its professional schools, the Graduate School in Arts and Sciences offers graduate degrees in 30 departments and divisions. These competitive programs prepare graduates for careers ranging from college and university teaching to research and administration in the public and private sectors. The Teaching Assistant and Teaching Opportunity program, a core requirement for the Ph.D., prepares graduate students to balance the demands of teaching and research. Emory's graduate programs encourage interdisciplinary study and cross-disciplinary exchange within the context of strong disciplinary training.

Emory University also has strong affiliations with several other programs. The Carter Center works to support human rights, prevent and resolve conflicts, enhance freedom and democracy, and improve health worldwide. The Yerkes Primate Research Center is a multidisciplinary institute recognized as a leader in biomedical and behavioral studies with nonhuman primates. The Michael C. Carlos Museum, located on the quadrangle of the main campus, houses a vast permanent collection of art from Egypt, Greece, Rome, the Near East, the Americas, Asia, and sub-Saharan Africa. A number of special exhibitions from other renowned institutions are featured frequently.

Debate at Emory

Emory University was founded in Covington, Georgia, on a campus known as Oxford in 1837. That year the Phi Gamma Literary Society was formed followed two years later by the Ignatius Few Literary Society. Modeled after the literary societies of British Universities such as Oxford and Cambridge, the Phi Gamma and Few Societies were organized around the practice of the forensic and literary arts. Students in these societies held weekly debates in their halls on the old Oxford campus. All students attended the debates and diaries of the day describe the subjects and content of some of these events. Every member of the literary society was expected to debate, and students could be fined for failure to debate.

Emory relocated to its current campus in 1914, and the literary societies continued their tradition of public debates. Under the direction of Theology and Speech Professor Nolan A. Goodyear, an intercollegiate debating team emerged from the weekly meetings of the societies. The decade from 1925 to 1935 was a golden era for debate at Emory. The team competed successfully against its college rivals at Duke, Princeton, and Harvard. Teams from British Universities, Oxford, Ireland, London, and Cambridge, visited the campus almost every year to participate in audience debates that filled the spacious Glenn Memorial sanctuary just inside the gates to Emory.

After World War II, the debate team was revived under assistant professor of speech George A. Neely. In 1949, following his commencement address, former Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, granted permission to the Emory debaters to rename the debate team the Barkley Forum. In 1961, the Barkley Forum membership asked Glenn Pelham, who would also serve two terms in the Georgia State Senate, to coach the Emory University debate team. He accepted, and the Barkley Forum went on to become one of the most successful debating organizations in the country.

In 1972, Glenn Pelham retired, and one of his most successful debaters became Director of the Barkley Forum. Melissa Maxcy Wade took over the program from her mentor and began a new era in debate at Emory. The Wade era has seen the Barkley Forum grow in membership, achieve record-setting success, and expand community service.

While the Barkley Forum has experienced remarkable competitive success in the last two decades, the Barkley Forum has retained a strong commitment to high school forensics. The high school tournament, the Barkley Forum for High Schools, began in 1951 and continues today providing top-flight national competition at the high school level. In addition, the BFHS takes the opportunity of the tournament to showcase successful high school participants in final rounds packed with large audiences. The BFHS also honors the high school teachers who work hard to provide a forensics education to their students. Each weekend throughout the school year, thousands of high school teachers take time to travel to high school debate tournaments out of sheer commitment to the value of forensic pedagogy. The BFHS sponsors the Barkley Forum Key Society, a national honor society of high school coaches inducted for their demonstrated commitment to the art of forensics education.

The Barkley Forum also hosts the Emory National Debate Institute, begun in 1965, to provide training and education for high school teachers and students. Members of the Forum are frequently assigned to assist metro area programs as part of a supervised educational studies internship. The Forum sponsors middle school tournaments, a series of high school tournaments for the Atlanta Urban Debate League, and makes guest appearances at schools upon request. The Forum provides faculty support to workshops and tutorials across the U.S. as a primary consultant and trainer for the UDL national education reform movement.

Back to the early days of the literary societies holding debates for audiences in crowded halls, Emory University has always recognized that debates are not ends in themselves but a means of cultivating, nurturing, and maintaining an active and participatory citizenry. In the first hundred years of the University, debates were staged for public exhibition, designed to entertain and educate. As academic debate moved into intercollegiate competition, debate at Emory continued to flourish as a public and competitive program.

Beginning in 1960, the Barkley Forum moved beyond public debates and began to use competitive debate to increase civic involvement. Under Mr. Pelham's direction, the Forum began the Emory National Debate Institute, in part to increase debate opportunities, but also to improve the overall educational opportunity for high school students in Georgia and nearby states. Mr. Pelham also initiated the tradition of the Barkley Forum Annual Awards Banquet, at which students, staff, and faculty of Emory are acknowledged for their support of Forum activities and goals. Each year the Forum awards the Georgia Speaker of the Year. The honor, presented to a Georgian for intelligent, responsible, and effective communication, reaffirms the Barkley Forum's commitment that the art of forensics should be used for the benefit of the broader community. The recipients present a brief speech, usually demonstrating their commitment to civil society. Past recipients include former President Jimmy Carter; former UN Ambassador Andrew Young; Benjamin E. Mays, leader in education reform; Mills B. Lane, investment banker; Robert Shaw, former director of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra; Leah Sears of the Georgia Supreme Court; social activist Jane Fonda; and in 2003, Ms. Rosalynn Carter for her work in mental health awareness.

In addition to making the services of the Barkley Forum available for campus activity, the Barkley Forum is a pioneer in the growth of Urban Debate Leagues. UDLs began in Atlanta in 1985 in partnership with the Atlanta Public Schools and a few dedicated teachers. In 1996, Emory University received a substantial grant from the Open Society Institute to significantly expand the program setting up pilot UDL's in other cities. Within three years over 2,000 inner-city high school students in more than fifteen cities nationwide were debating who had never had the opportunity to debate before. That commitment continues to grow with a burgeoning middle school program with over 200 participants in metro-Atlanta alone.

From the literary societies of the nineteenth century through the competitive programs of the current era, debate at Emory has evolved and changed with social, cultural, and academic trends. In the modern era, the Barkley Forum has enjoyed unprecedented competitive success, expanded opportunity and participation, and increased service to community. The unfailing support of the Emory University administration continues to make the Barkley Forum an outstanding collegiate forensic program.

Tournament Announcements

- 1. Rooms. Preliminary rounds will be held in two locations. On Friday, all rounds will be held at the Marriott Century Center Hotel. Debates will be held on the first floor meeting rooms and in guest rooms with no beds but tables and chairs for the debaters and judges. On Saturday and Sunday, all rounds will be held on or near the quadrangle of the Emory Campus. We will be in five or six buildings as Emory has a small undergraduate population and no single large classroom space. We suggest you get to Emory in plenty of time to drop-off your evidence, park your vans, and proceed to Cox Hall for morning announcements.
- 2. Evidence Storage. We encourage you to leave your evidence in the Ballroom of the Marriott Century Center on Friday after Round III. We believe you will find it easier to use the elevators if teams place their evidence on the first floor. This will make it much more convenient for everyone. You can leave your evidence on campus on Saturday evening, as we expect to use the same rooms on Sunday. However, please be advised not to leave valuables in the rooms. The rooms will be locked up, but we cannot guarantee its safety.
- 3. Parking. Parking should be simple on the Emory Campus during the weekend. However, you should be aware that campus roads are closed to through traffic. We strongly encourage you to drop your evidence near White Hall. We will have students there to direct you. From that location you should be able to get your evidence to most buildings fairly easily. We will have vans available to help move those few of you who are not located on the Quad. Do not park in the following spaces: those with Orange "reserved at all times," "carpool," and "service vehicles only" signs. We cannot help you if your vehicle is towed or booted. We strongly encourage you to use the Peavine or Fishburne Parking Decks. Our students will direct you there when you drop off your evidence at White Hall.
- 4. Ballot Collection. We will be collecting ballots from the competition rooms at the hotel on Friday. However, if you cannot find a ballot collector (as of this writing we are not sure which rooms will be allocated to competition) we will have a ballot table set up outside the ballroom to turn in ballots if you cannot find someone. We will have ballot collectors in each building we use on campus and we will have a ballot table there as well.
- 5. Photocopying. The nearest photocopying center is a 24 hours Kinko's located on the corner of Clairmont and North Decatur Road. From the hotel, take a right out of the hotel parking lot to the Interstate access road. Take a left at the next traffic light, Clairmont Road. Take Clairmont Road about three or four miles to North Decatur Road. The Kinko's will be in a small strip mall on your left. From the Emory campus you can also take a left onto North Decatur Road and the Kinko's will be on your left at Clairmont. On campus, you can do some limited photocopying in the Woodruff Library.
- 6. Team Photos. Given that we are in two locations, we have limited time to have pictures made. All photographs will be taken on Saturday. We encourage you to carefully check the schedule for you district photos. Please proceed to Cox Hall immediately after your debate round and help us expedite the process.
- 7. Directions to Emory University. To get to Emory on Saturday morning, take a right out of the hotel to the Interstate Access Road. Take a right (R). Take the access road to the first traffic light. This is Clairmont Road. Take a left (L). Take Clairmont Road approximately four miles to North Decatur Road [The Kinko's is on your right]. Take a right (R). Follow North Decatur Road to a five point intersection. The Emory Gates will be on your right. The street is called Dowman Drive. Take a right (R). Follow Dowman around until you get to White Hall. Emory Students should be there to help you unload your evidence and direct you to parking.

PLEASE NOTE: We are only using the buildings where the name is capitalized

The History of the NDT

The National Debate Tournament began at the United States Military Academy in 1947. It was organized and conducted by the Academy at West Point for its first twenty years. Initial tournament rules were determined by the West Point Administration in consultation with debate coaches such as A. Craig Baird of the University of Iowa, G.M. Musgrave of Des Moines, Alan Nichols of the University of Southern California, E. R. Nichols of the University of Redlands, and Joseph O'Brien of Penn State University.

At the first tournament in 1947, 29 colleges participated in the "seeding" rounds and four elimination rounds over a three-day period. Some of the features of the tournament were that no school would meet a school within five hundred miles of itself during the seeding rounds and that no coach would judge a school from his or her own district.

In 1967, the National Debate Tournament entered a new era as the American Forensic Association, the national professional organization of American forensic educators, assumed responsibility for the tournament. The NDT was moved from West Point and has been hosted by a different school every year since, although four schools have hosted it twice (West Georgia College, Miami University of Ohio, the University of Utah, and Southwest Missouri State University). Procedures for the tournament are determined by the NDT Committee, which is composed of one member elected from each of the 9 districts and 4 members appointed by the AFA President. The NDT Board of Trustees are appointed by the AFA President. The Board has the responsibility of overseeing all NDT financial matters. As debate has developed in recent years, other refinements have been added to the tournament: Cross-examination, ten minutes of preparation time, elaborate procedures for mutual judge ratings, judge qualification requirements, and computer assisted research stations for participating schools. The tournament has also expanded in size from 29 teams to 78 teams.

In the early days, district-nominating committees chose teams. This method was replaced by some form of qualifying tournament in most districts. For the first 20 years of NDT competition, the tournament host and previous year's winner received automatic invitations. Post-district at-large bids were initiated in 1968, and pre-district bids in 1971. Since 1970, it has been possible for any school to qualify as many as two teams for the tournament. Beginning in 1992, the tournament expanded from 68 teams to 78 teams, allowing up to six schools the opportunity to qualify a third team.

The National Debate Tournament is grateful to its corporate sponsor, the Ford Motor Company Fund. The NDT is also indebted to Mr. Sigurd S. Larmon (1891-1987) for donating the rotating Larmon Trophy, emblematic of the national debate championship; to Mr. and Mrs. George Walker for donating the rotating second-place Walker Memorial Trophy in memory of their son; to Mr. Robert Feldhake, top speaker at the 1976 NDT and now an attorney in Los Angeles, for donating the Wayne Brockriede Top Speaker Award; to District Nine for donating the rotating top Speaker Trophy; to the Copeland Family for donating the Rex Copeland First Team at-Large Trophy, and to Ovid R. Davis and the State University of West Georgia for donating the Championship Coach Award.

Rex Copeland Award

On September 21, 1989, the life of Rex Copeland was brought to a sudden and tragic close. With his death, Samford University lost an outstanding student, and the forensic community lost an excellent debater and friend. In recognition of Rex's professional and personal qualities, Samford, together with his parents, endowed a permanent award in his name. The Rex Copeland Memorial Award is presented annually to the collegiate debate team ranked "Number One" in the First Round, At-Large team selections. This award recognizes the few who achieve one of the highest honors in the debate community.
