February 23, 1984

To the Participants in the 1983 National Debate Tournament:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to The University of Tennessee, Knoxville. We are delighted and honored that our campus is the site of the 1984 National Debate Tournament.

Not long ago, in another context, I said that a university must be judged by the questions it asks. I could amplify that by adding that a measure of its intellectual vitality is the issues it debates. By that I mean not just the skills in research, argument and speech developed in a good Forensics program, and the university's concern about its own governance and its relationships, inside and out. I mean the cultivation of question and discussion, challenge and response, which are at the heart of all disciplines and best characterize how we should learn.

How the questions are put and the issues are debated has become an increasingly important consideration. More and more students want to develop their skills as speakers as well as writers. And the idea of the university as a resource center in communication in the broadest sense--from computers to rhetoric, from problem-solving to plays--is a steadily more important role for us. To improve the quality of discourse may be one of the most significant contributions the university can make to society.

Best wishes to all.

Sincerely,

Jack E. Reese
Chancellor

To All Participants in the 1984 National Debate Tournament:

Welcome to the University of Tennessee and the National Debate Tournament on behalf of the American Forensic Association.

We are all especially grateful to President Edward J. Boling and Professor Russell T. Church of the University of Tennessee for their efforts in hosting the tournament. Let us also take a moment to thank David Zarefsky, Tournament Director; Bill Southworth, MDT Committee Chair; and Vernon McGuire, MDT Board of Trustees Chair, for their hard work in behalf of the tournament.

By participating in the National Debate Tournament you represent, as a coach, contestant, hired judge, or tournament official, all that is best in American forensics. Ours is an activity rich in its diversity and strong in its heritage. I congratulate all of you on being part of contemporary forensics.

May the best team win!

Cordially,

Jack Rhodes
President

Your presence at this Tournament demonstrates the achievements you have already accomplished, and we are glad to be associated with you in this outstanding event.

Our very best wishes for continued success to all of you.

The National Debate

The National Debate Tournament began at the United States Military Academy in 1947. The NDT was organized and run by West Point for its first twenty years. In the early years of the tournament, the rules were determined by West Point administration in consultation with such debate coaches as A. Craig Baird of Iowa, G.M. Musgrave of Des Moines, Alan Nichols of Southern California, E.R. Nichols of Redlands, and Joseph O'Brien of Pennsylvania State. At the first tournament in 1947 twenty-nine colleges participated in five "seeding" rounds and four elimination rounds over a three day period. Some of the features of the tournament were that no school in the seeding rounds would meet a school within five hundred miles of it and no coach would judge a school from his own district. Many traditions were started at West Point that year, some of which still remain today: the "big board," announcement of round pairings, cadet escorts, teams for each debate meeting under the school banner of the affirmative team, and team signs in the rooms.

In 1967, The National Debate Tournament entered a new era as the American Forensic Association assumed responsibility for the Tournament. The NDT moved from West Point and has been hosted by a different school every year since. Control of the tournament became the responsibility of a national committee elected by those schools supporting the tournament. As debate has developed in the last ten years, other refinements have been added to the tournament including the ten minute rule, elaborate striking procedures, judging qualifications, and critiques of the final round.

Over the years, the tournament has expanded to sixty-two teams with various procedures used for their selection. In the early days of the tournament teams were chosen by district nominating committees. This method later was replaced by some form of qualifying tourna ment in most districts. In the early 1970's certain large tournaments were designated as national qualifiers, but today we rely on a combination of district tournaments and at-large bids.

One key element of the National Debate Tournament has been the support of past participants and community leaders. The early contributions of the United States Military Academy are exemplified by George Walker for whom the permanent second place trophy is named. Walker was an excellent debater for West Point who won the NDT in 1956 and placed second in 1957. The support of professional people is typified by Sigurd S. Larmon for whom the permanent first place trophy is named. Mr. Larmon's generous support of the National Debate Tournament has been invaluable to its success. In recent years financial grants from the Ford Motor Company have made it possible for the tournament to prosper. Their support is recognized in the Ford Fund watches for the final round participants.

Perhaps the most important aspect of the National Debate Tournament through the years has been the people associated with it. Key people in many fields and professions have received communicative and argumentative training from debate and have displayed these skills in the National Debate Tournament.

Tournament 1984

RESOLVED: That Any and All Injury Resulting From the Disposal of Hazardous Waste in the United States Should Be the Legal Responsibility of the Producer of That Waste.

The thirty-eighth National Debate Tournament is sponsored by the American Forensic Association and the Ford Motor Company Fund. District and national committees have expended much time and effort to insure that the tournament reflects the highest quality debating throughout the nation.

Sixteen teams were selected at-large by the National Debate Tournament Committee on the basis of outstanding records prior to the District tournaments. Thirty-six teams representing the nine Districts were invited on the basis of their superior debating in District tournaments. Ten additional teams were selected by the National Committee on an at-large basis after the District tournaments.

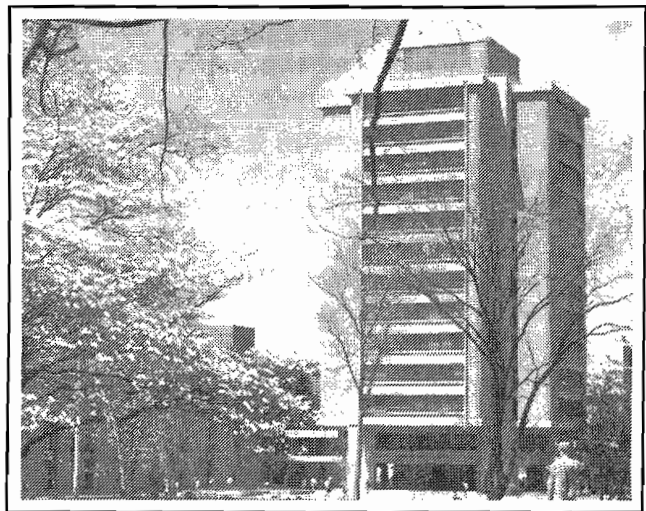

Guest judges, recommended by their District committees and selected by the tournament director, join coach-judges accompanying the debate teams to staff three-person judging panels. In the first two preliminary rounds, judges are assigned according to the discretion of the director. Within specific constraints, judges are assigned to a round on the basis of random selection. In rounds three through eight of the preliminary rounds, judge panels are constituted on the basis of the mutual preferences of the teams involved in the round. These standards are designed to provide the best balance and highest quality criticism and evaluation of debate rounds.

The first round is matched on a pre-set schedule based upon the order in which teams qualified for the tournament with schools from the same district not meeting. All other odd numbered rounds are paired on the basis of direct power (high records meeting high records). All even numbered rounds are paired on the basis of high-low records within brackets. Any team can be paired against any other school in the preliminary rounds, and against any other team in the elimination rounds. On the basis of records in the eight preliminary rounds, the top sixteen teams are selected by win-loss records, total ballots, and total adjusted speaker points for elimination round competition. Four rounds of elimination round competition culminate in the selection of one team as the national champion of collegiate debate. Awards are given to the individual speakers after eight rounds of preliminary competition. Ten speakers are recognized on the basis of adjusted speaker points, with high-lows being dropped up to four times.

Officials of the National Debate Tournament and the members of the American Forensic Association are grateful to the Ford Motor Company Fund for the generous grant which helped make this tournament possible. This support is recognized in the Ford Motor Fund Awards for the final round participants. We are also grateful to Mr. Sigurd S. Larmon for donating the rotating Larmon Trophy, emblematic of the national debate championship, to Mr. and Mrs. George Walker for donating the rotating second-place Walker Memorial Trophy, to Mr. Robert Feldhake for donating the Top Speaker watch, and to District IX for donating the rotating top speaker trophy.

We are most appreciative of the work of Russell Church of the University of Tennessee, our tournament host. District VI has provided valuable assistance to the tournament. We are also indebted to Chancellor Jack Reese and Provost George Wheeler of the University of Tennessee, to Robert Landen, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Tennessee, to Peter Garvie, Head of the Department of Speech and Theatre at the University, and to his predecessor, G. Allan Yeomans, to Jean DeHart, John Carson, and Norma Cook, who have assisted with local arrangements, and to all the members of the University of Tennessee Forensics Team.
